

Abortion

“I want to live!” Could this be the cry that the little ones makes when a lonely women walks into an abortion clinic, whether it be a partial abortion or not? Is the embryo truly able to feel pain? Does an abortion affect the mother in a negative way, both physically & emotionally? Can it kill her? How about the dad? How does it affect him? What & who are people killing in abortions? What happens in a partial birth abortion? Why is abortion so strongly spoken for? Or against?

My aunt Jan had 2 abortions. So I should know the answer to, “does it hurt the mom?” the answer is yes... in fact, it got so bad she killed herself when her mom took her first baby that she didn’t abort. Emotionally, Jan was unstable... she periodically had nightmares... horrible nightmares! Physically, Jan was okay. But Pam J (my mom’s friend) wasn’t. Not only was she emotionally upset... but when they sucked out the baby, they hurt her baby equipment ... she had 2 miscarriages. She had to be sewn up as soon as she got pregnant in order to keep a pregnancy, she also had to be hospitalized the last part of the pregnancy. Can it kill the mother? Yes, there have been reports of death. Not only can an abortion emotionally & physically hurt the mother... it’s not bad enough that it could kill her... it can give her breast cancer also. Many studies show that as abortion rates go up, so does breast cancer rates. A Dutch scientist said, “Abortion doesn’t cause breast cancer, but it does make it a likely candidate”. Yes, it affects the mother negatively.

How would you feel if you didn’t know you were a dad until the child was aborted? Maybe sad that you never got to see the baby? How about mad that you never got a say in the matter? Or would you feel betrayed that your girlfriend went behind your back? I know I would feel all these emotions, maybe even more. The father has no rights under the law during an abortion.

Have you ever thought about what people are killing during an abortion? People say, “Just because the fetus looks like a human doesn’t make it one”. There is scientific reason to believe that the fetus is a child. She can breath, she can hear, he can see, his heart beats, they can move... these are all able to scientifically prove to be traits of a living thing. There are brain waves coming from the child, is that not enough? And it can also be proven that even if you took the child out of the mom, and had sewn it back into another animal... he/she will still come out as a human being (common since). It was made with two humans; it wasn’t made with a human & a monkey.

(Model) In the stages of the fetus, 12 weeks old is usually when an abortion is done. By this time, everything from the fine hair on its face, to its last toenail has formed. It is about the size of your index finger (3in to be exact). 1week olds are barely larger than a grain of sugar (and look similar to them as well). By 3 weeks its veins & arteries form, along with its sex cells. Also the foundations for the brain, spinal cord, & nervous system are laid. A week later, his/her heart begins to beat. His/her eyes, ears, & lungs begin to form. When he/she enters week 5 her/his arms & legs begin to form, as well as the babies face. The baby's blood is now separate from the mothers. By 6 he/she starts to get tiny fingers and toes. And the brain is divided into 3 parts for his/her special needs. When 7 gets around the corner the child gets her baby teeth, 99% of his/her muscle, and the brain is working. By 8 she/he can move, and by 9 you can tell if the child is a boy or girl. When the child reaches 10, you can see her/his tiny little finger prints. By 11 she/he practices breathing and facial expressions, even smiling.

Have you ever seen "The Silent Scream"? I watched it right before I started to write this report. It was the one of the most violent, sick, cruel, & unjust things I've ever seen! It was a sonogram taken while a lady was having an abortion. 1st, they stuck these things into her uterus to make the hole big enough for a tube to fit in it. Next, they stick a small tube into the uterus & puncture the sack so all the juices drain from it. The child knows something's in its sanctuary, & he/she tries to move up against the side... but it is no use, the tube is hooked to a suction machine that has no mercy toward the child. If you look closely, you will see the child scream while it's trying to escape. But again the tube tries to find the child, and succeeds. Slowly it rips the legs off the child & into the tube, followed by the rest of the body. And finally, all that's left is a floating head. The tube has done its damage, now it's taken out and a pair of tong-like things is put in. It then grabs the remaining head, pulls it out, and crushes it. This, of course is only one way to have an abortion. But all ways are painful for the child.

Partial birth abortion is just as brutal as an abortion. It is done in the last trimester of pregnancy; Labor is induced and while she is having the baby, its killed. Many people who are pro-choice seem to over look this performance and say, "the fetus isn't a child until it's born". Well these poor babies would be children according to that statement. If there is uncertainty about when human life begins, than we should take the benefit of the doubt and keep the child. Yet people overlook that factor. The way it's done; the doctors pull out the child half way out, and then make an incision in the back of its head. Next they stick suction tube until the skull collapses. Then they pull the dead child out the rest of the way, and throw the corpse from violent assault, 2347 American children died from a car accident, 32867 American children died from disease, 1310000 American children died from legal abortion.

There are so many great human beings born in this world! Mozart, Abraham Lincoln, Billy Graham, and so many others! What if one of them had been an abortion? We wouldn't have this wonderful music. And the USA would still have slaves. And some of the greatest Christian books would be lost. You see? Science and medicine tell us that abortion kills a living human being.

Abortions photographs help establish the reality that abortion is a brutal act of violence. Even if you think the fetus isn't a baby, wont it someday be one? Even if you kill what you think if just a fetus, aren't you killing what will be a baby? Who are people killing when they have an abortion?

As you can see, I answered all my questions at the top. Except one. Why is abortion so strongly spoken for? I can't answer that. (This is just my opinion but...) I would guess people think the same way Hitler did. He thought that if according to him you were worthless, than he could kill you. Isn't that the same with people who like abortion? Maybe also, it's because abortion is one of the top money making industries in the US. Why is abortion so strongly spoken against? Because abortion kills the baby, hurts the parents, and needs to be stopped.
